

Earl's Wood Hardener

Without an adequate supply of air and moisture, most species of timber will succumb to rot, which is actually a form of fungal attack. Rot can cause extensive and irreversible damage to timber and at the point it becomes evident the problem is well established.

Earl's Wood Hardener is a wood consolidant containing acrylic and urethane adhesives. These easily bind to the fibres to give them structural integrity and block the uptake of moisture, which causes the rot to become inactive. It's suitable for rotting windows, cladding and weatherboards, outdoor furniture and fencing, but not for restoring structural timber.

Super Tools

Leatherman introduces the new Super Tool 300 (ST300), with plenty of new and upgraded features from the original Super Tool.

Improvements include pliers which have been optimised for strength, while sloped for the ability to reach even further into tight spaces. Also to maintain the balance of materials when making room for the new removable wire cutters, more steel was added to key areas, making the ST300 stronger.

By optimising the heat treatment process and replacing the standard stainless steel with premium 154CM, the wire cutters will hold an edge three times as long for maximum durability.

The idea of "clumping" was originally introduced with the first Super Tool. By pulling on only one tool, you would get them all from the handle at once, including the knives. To improve on safety, the new ST300 has "Edge-safety Clumping". If you pull on either of the two knives they are the only implement that will come out. Conversely, if you pull on any of the other features the sharp-edged ones stay put.

The handles are rounded for comfort and have cut outs on the side to easily access blades when wearing bulky work gloves.

ST300 is now available in New Zealand and comes with Leatherman's industry-leading, 25-year warranty.
